

REACH declaration of conformity

Dear customer,

As a manufacturer of clamping systems (machine-manufactured products) Berg & Co. GmbH is a “downstream user” as defined by the ordinance on the Registration, Evaluation, Authorization and Restriction of Chemicals (REACH). None of the items (products) we provide are of a chemical nature. This means Berg & Co. GmbH is not subject to mandatory registration nor are we obligated to issue safety data sheets.

Berg & Co. GmbH hereby confirms that your clamping systems comply with the legal obligations arising from Article 33 of the European REACH ordinance 1907/2006 (Registration, Evaluation, Authorization and Restriction of Chemicals) which became applicable on June 1, 2007.

Based on our suppliers’ current obligation to provide information (referring to Article 33), we can currently confirm that none of the BERG clamping systems contain the substances listed in the current so-called ECHA candidate list (SVHC substances of very high concern according to REACH article 59 in higher concentrations than 0.1 % of the weight – as of January 2022).

Berg & Co. GmbH and its suppliers will be checking the current ECHA candidate list continuously for additions and updates and comply with the obligation to provide information as required by the REACH ordinance. The current candidate list can be viewed on the web page of the European Chemicals Agency at the following link:
http://echa.europa.eu/chem\_data/candidate\_list\_en.asp

In the extremely unlikely case that a component of our clamping systems contains a substance listed on the candidate list of the SVHC (Article 59) at a weight percentage of > 0.1 %, we will comply with our obligation to inform according to article 33. At the same time we will immediately attempt to replace these substances with an alternative solution.
